What is CAIA®?

The CAIA Charter is the professional designation for alternative investment specialists that demonstrates an individual's commitment to the alternative investment profession and mastery of its concepts and practices.

The designation is quickly becoming recognised by institutions, regulators, and investors as the seal of distinction in the alternative investment industry.

The CAIA® program is designed to provide finance professionals with an extensive foundation of knowledge in traditional and alternative investment vehicles, including hedge funds, venture capital, commodities, managed futures, real estate and private equity.

The CAIA® assures that employees have:

- A comprehensive alternative investment background
- The ability to gain and maintain client confidence and trust
- High standards of professionalism

The CAIA® program's diverse curriculum appeals to a broad group of candidates ranging in experience from the novice to the seasoned professional. Investment advisors, consultants and analysts, fund managers and administrators, accountants, lawyers, academics, as well as administrative staff and compliance and back office personnel.

About the CAIA Association®

In 1999, under the guidance of The Center for International Securities and Derivatives Markets (CISDM) and the Alternative Investment Management Association (AIMA), committed industry leaders undertook the task of creating a professional designation exclusively for alternative investment specialists. The result of their efforts is the Chartered Alternative Investment Analyst designation, or CAIA® - the AI industry's first and only specialised educational standard.

The CAIA Association® was established with the belief that a strong foundation of knowledge specific to alternative investments is essential for all AI professionals. Other programs do not address the unique attributes associated with alternative assets, but focus primarily on traditional investments.

Given the area's explosive inflow of investable capital, it is now more imperative than ever that AI participants set themselves apart from the broader investment industry. Earning the CAIA® designation demonstrates an individual's commitment to the profession and comprehension of its unique fundamentals.

The Curriculum

The CAIA® program provides a broad-based curriculum in alternative investments. The program covers the main areas of hedge funds, private equity, commodities, real estate and managed futures.

The CAIA® program is organised into two levels, with Level I using investment analytics to examine the fundamentals of each alternative asset class. Level II applies these analytics within an asset allocation and decision-making framework. Both incorporate segments on ethics and professional conduct - essential components of the CAIA® program.

Level I

The Level I curriculum is broadly divided into two sections - quantitative methods and an introduction to alternative investments. Candidates study the application of basic analytical tools, as well as the fundamentals of alternative investment vehicles. Candidates learn to differentiate between the various AI trading strategies and performance measurements. Candidates registered for the program are assumed to have an elementary undergraduate understanding of the basic concepts of traditional finance.

Level I curriculum covers:

- quantitative analysis
- regulatory frameworks
- trading strategies
- performance measurement
- credit derivatives

Level II

The Level II curriculum is also broadly divided into two sections - alternative investments and Current and Integrated Topics. Both sections take a global perspective. Candidates must apply the skills and knowledge from Level I to gain a deeper understanding of issues involved in each of the areas of alternative investments. Current and Integrated Topics is updated annually to reflect the latest industry and research developments, such as new products and advances in risk management techniques.

Level II curriculum covers:

- asset allocation
- portfolio management
- style analysis
- risk management
- structured products
- indexation and benchmarking
- current topics and case analyses

Who should become a CAIA® Designee?

- Seasoned professionals wishing to add to their investment arsenal: Investment advisors, brokers, consultant and analysts, fund managers and administrators, accountants, lawyers, academics and compliance, and back-office personnel
- New industry participants seeking to understand alternative investments through a structured program

How to Earn the CAIA® Designation

• Complete the CAIA® Program

CAIA® candidates must pass the Level II exam within 3 years of passing the Level I exam to qualify for the CAIA® designation

• Professional Experience (full-time employment in a professional capacity within the bank regulatory, banking, financial or related fields):

- Over one year of professional experience and a U.S. bachelor's degree (or equivalent) or;
- Four years of professional experience

• Execute the Member Agreement

Qualifying candidates must complete the online Member Agreement, provide two (2) professional references, and submit their annual membership dues directly to CAIA Association®

Prerequisites

Candidates enrolling in the CAIA® program are assumed to have an elementary understanding of the basic concepts of finance. This includes facts about the instruments that trade in traditional markets, models used to value these instruments and modern portfolio theory.

However there is no requirement to demonstrate such an understanding to the CAIA Association® prior to becoming a Level I candidate.

If you are unsure about your preparedness, please review the CAIA® Prerequisite Materials and take the Prerequisite Diagnostic Review at www.caia.org/program/prerequisitematerials
